MR. BULLOCK, British Consul at Tientsin, has a case in which Mr. Nils Möller sued Messrs. J. mission at the rate of 2} per cent, on the amount for which the Pelho Tug and Lighter Company's fleet was sold to the Taku Tug and Lighter Company. Mr. Möller worked for some days offering Tis. 20,000 and the sellers asking Tis. 25,000, which offer was ultimately reduced to Tis. 24,000. The plaintiff endeavoured unsuccessfully to bring them together at Tis-22.500, and then returned to Shanghai, and soon afterwards the parties came to terms at the last quoted price. Mr. Möller demanded his commission, which was refused; but the Consul has decided in his favor-a decision, we consider, that could never be upheld in a properly con-stituted court of law. When Mr. Möller, after failing to effect a sale, returned to Shanghai, he put himself entirely out of court in any claim for commission—unless he had a special agreement, and as that is not in evidence, the Consul's judgment is simply ridiculous.

"A LATE PATIENT" sends a long letter about the state of the Government Civil Hospital, and especially complains of the disgraceful way in which female patients are neglected-being left untended except by a lazy useless "boy," leave all correspondence on this subject, however, to our morning contemporary, which recently published several strong letters of the same kind. But we may say that on two occasions we have endeavored to obtain reliable information as to the working of this large and expensive institution, and although none could be gleaned from the officials, we gathered enough to know that the authorities made a very serious mistake, and one which they cannot remedy too quickly, when they engaged the five so-called Nursing Sisters. They are viewed with equal disfavor by the doctors, the wardmasters, and the patients; they are the very worst imitation of the "ministering angel" possible; they get larger salaries than professional nurses would ask; and, "A Late Patient" says, occasionally try their hand at proselytising The subject is one which affects every resident bere, and which calls for immediate and searching investigation on the part of the Executive.

OUR Shanghai morning contemporary of the 26th ulto, says :- We have to announce with great regret that news has been received by wire of the death-it is presumed at Milton, Mass.-on the 22nd instant, of Mr. Edward Conningham, at the age of sixty-six. Mr. Cunningham was for many years at the head of Messrs. Russell & Co.': firm in Shanghai, and was one of the makers of the Settlement, Mr. Cunningham came China first in 1845, as a clerk in the firm of Messrs. J. D. Sword & Co., and joined the firm of Russell & Co. in 1846, retiring finally in 1877, though he left Shanghai in 1875. A good man of business and a warm friend, he will be remembered as one of the most public-spirited men that Shanghai has been fortunate in possessing from time to time, and he has left his, mark on the municipal history of the Settlement, in which he took the deepest interest. An American first, as when he st od out for the right to hoist the "Stars and Stripes" on Russell & Co.'s premises at Lao Kee Chang, in spite of the objections of the British Consul, Captain Ballour, he was a thorough Shanghai-ite, devoting himself to the general well-being of his adopted home; nor even for long after his retirement from China did he lose his interest in its prospe-

IT'is not always safe, the N. C. Daily News remarks, to judge the condition of a district by the price of grain. THE CHINESE AND BANKRUPTCY

A practical exemplification of the way in which the Chinese look upon our Bankruptcy Law was given in the Supreme Court this morning. Pak Chungpan, Superintendent of Trade at Chemulpo, may be of a very retiring nature, but his latest public act would appear to justify quite a different opinion of his character. On the 4th November he issued a proclamation which suns as follows :-

"Notice is hereby given to all merchants that, in order to meet the expenses of the Royal College, a tax will be levied in accordance w th the decree of the King. All wholesale merchants will be brought within the ruling of the decree. The amount of the tax will be duly notified to those concerned whose business is transacted either on land or water,"

The manner in which "the amount of the tax" will be duly notified " is comprehensible enough. It simply means that the merchants are to quietly submit to some gross extortion by the local authorities under the belief (delusion?) that the King has decreed it in the interests of the missionary teachers who sway the sceptre of authority in a so-called College which, according to the preclamation, is an insupportable burden to the State! Such a burden in fact, that in order to keep these over-worked and learned American professors in their chairs struggling merchants are to be robbed. This is a shameful affair which seems to call for official investigation. Possibly the next step in the direction of retrenchment will be the closing of the College and the discharge of Messrs. Halbert and Bunder, the two teachers. Otherwise, if Mr. P.k squeezes the merchants, serious opposition and disorder may soon prevail both in the capital and the port of Chemulpo.

(OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

November 22nd, 1880. The inquest, which as I mentioned on the 19th instant had been opened at 2 o'clock that afternoon, was continued next morning at the British Consulate and brought to a close after an exhaustive enquiry, which occupied most of the day, the jurors returning the following verdict :-"That Colin Jamieson was found drowned, cast up on the beach near Middle Point on the 19th of November, but there is no evidence to shew how the deceased got into the water."

No other verdict could have been returned. for the medical gentlemen who had examined the body had stated that there were no internal. or external indications of violence to be found on it. Nevertheless the facts remain that the ring. watch and chain of the deceased were not upon his person, and his pockets were empty and one was noticed to be practically turned inside out The sleeve-links and gold collar-stud were. however, in their places, untouched.

The missing property evidently influenced the jurors in their decision, for had Mr. Jamieson's valuables been found upon his body it is probable a verdict of accidental death from drowning would have been given:

The funeral, which took place to-day, was attended by H.E. Sheng Tabtai, with his retinue, and the various foreign Consuls of the port were present not alone out of respect and friendship to the deceased, but also in their official capacity to shew full honour at the grave of the Commissioner of Customs: It is needless to say that the sad fate of Mr.

Colin Jamieson has cast a gloom over the entire Turning to the animated events of everyday life, I have to report a scene of great activity just now in the harbour consequent upon the closing of Newchwang, from which port sleamers are constantly arriving; and no less then six came in yesterday forencon. The first of this fleet was the Indo-China S. N. Co.'s new steamship Yuensang, which crossed the bar of the Newchwang river on Tuesday behind all the others, but arrived here an hour and a half ahead of the first of them.

It will be remembered that the Yuensang was ordered at home to be built to replace the sleamer Lassang, and those competent to judge assert that she has, indeed, met the Company s requirements in a most admirable manner. She is able to carry a large cargo on a moderate draught, and to make, on account of her great power, even faster passages than the Lessang used to record, whilst burning no more coal than the last-named steamer, whose hull, by the way, is still lying, apparently intact, on the reef of rocks at the Liau-Ti-Shan Promontory,-N. PEKING

The correspondent of the N. C. Daily News writes under date the 18th November :-The Paking Gasette is most instructive to the student of the Chinese. The other day the officials throughout the provinces were called upon to bring the delinquencies of the Viceroys and Governors to the attention of the Emperor. This practice, were it faithfully followed out would no doubt be productive of much good. There is nothing like the truth of the old timererb -set a thief to catch a thief; but although these things are very beautiful in theory in practice they are something very different. A bribe will buy over most Chinese. Purity of the mandamate and, in consequence, of the its departments, is apparently not attainable in any degree except by a radical change of the principles upon which the system is carried out.

It is the belief of China's best friends that the leaven of Christianity is wanted to infuse new vitality into the corrupt Chinese system, [Bosh. —Ed. H.K.T.] It is also to be noted from the Gazette that the Vice roy Li is blamed for not sending up to the Throne the regular monthly prices of the cereals in his province -a practice which seems to be followed by all the other Governors. Does this hauling over the coals of the mighty satraps indicate any source of weakness at the centre of authority or the desire of the youthful Emperor to get hold of the reins of government? Or does it indicate an ability to govern and not to reign only? The other day the Emperor granted permission to three Ministers to ride on horseback from the East Flowery Gate to the hall of audience. The Ministers provide their own ponies. This favour is soldom conferred on any one under sixty years of age. It is considered a considerable mark of favour and is much sought after. In wet weather and in the winter season this is no mean privilege. The distance to be traversed on foot is about a is, and with the heavy furs of the officials, walking any distance becomes a burden. If any yamen has sent up any memorials to the Throne, all the high officials of that yamen must be in attendance to be called up if necessary before His Majesty and questioned regarding it. If the Minister has to walk this distance, he appears before his august sovereign breathless and in a state of great perspiration, and is flurried and hardly able to answer a question.

There are thirty secretaries to the Grand Council who draft the edicts and submit them to the Council. There are fifteen Chinese and fifteen Manchu secretaries. Twice has reference been made in leaders to a feeling of uneasiness at the capital as to the stability of things in China. Nothing is here known of any such condition of things as to warrant uneasiness. The ground of dissatisfaction of the Emperor with his aunt, the Empress Downger, if such exist, is most certainly not on account of the bride she chose for him. There is apparently some little estrangement between the Emperor and his aunt, but the young Empress is on the side of the Emperor and is quite a favourite with her Imperial lord.
